

News Gathered From Southside..

Can't Help Singing

the praises of our "Jay-El" Special Ten-Dollar Suit.

Can't help "pointing with pride" to the best-fitting Shirts in town, $1 to $2.50.

Can't help wishing more aching backs and weary legs knew the comfort of our Spring-Weight Underwear, 50c to $2.50.

Can't help crowing, because our shop is gaining new friends every day and making firmer friends of the old ones.

Can't help feeling that YOU ought to know us, if you don't.

Jacobs & Levy.

Knee Pants that sold up to $1, Monday 45c.

BRYAN AND GRAY ALONE HAVE VOTES

(Continued from First Page.)

rola, and his insurance reforms have made him the recognized leader in that sort of legislation.

Indomitable Pluck. "Governor Johnson finds the way," said one of his friends to a Washington newspaper correspondent. "He carries the message to the people."

Minnesota had trouble with the cage trust. The farmers had to pay too much for twine to bind their wheat. Johnson went to the rescue of the farmer and took the bull by the horns.

The State of Minnesota has long conducted a twine monopoly with prison labor, the object being to furnish the farmers with twine for harvesting their crops at a reasonable price and to protect them from the trust. To compete with this factory the trust established a plant in the State. Governor Johnson's answer to this was to request the Legislature for authority to sell the product of the State plant outside as well as within the State.

"In appearance Governor Johnson is a tall, angular man, with strong jaws, brown hair and clear blue eyes. His manner makes him popular with all sorts of people—it is without pose, affectation, arrogance or deference. He is agreeable and has the power of winning the confidence of those with whom he comes in contact."

"Governor Johnson does things," declared his friends. "He has induced a Legislature of another party to follow, cheer, and esteem him, and join him heartily in his plans for new and advanced legislation. He is a power for good."

An Able Politician. As a politician he is able, adroit and successful. He inherits his rebelliousness and his love of freedom from his parents, yet he thinks and acts like the typical American that he is. Just before the outbreak of the Civil War his father and mother came from Sweden to Minnesota, where they made their home. As a youth and young man John Albert Johnson worked to help his mother, who, after the death of her husband, had to take in washing as a means of supporting her family. During a service as drug clerk, Johnson obtained a liberal education, studying until late every night. To-day he is well informed and able. As an orator, he is forceful and confident. He believes in the people and fundamental principles.

His loyalty to the Democratic party cannot be challenged. Before he was old enough to vote he became a firm believer in the party of Jefferson, and later voted and worked for Cleveland, Bryan and Parker. His record for regularity is correct.

As a means of livelihood, Mr. Johnson served as the editor of a weekly newspaper at St. Peter. He made good at that as he has done at everything he ever undertook.

Recently Governor Johnson said: "The fundamental issue, in my judgment, is the tariff. The currency question does not seem to me to be fundamental. That is more or less a matter of convenience; the currency is an assistant to exchange that will probably have to be altered from time to time as conditions indicate. But the tariff is arranged to lay the masses of the people under tribute for the benefit of the few. Therefore it comes at once to a fundamental issue of free government."

JONES RINGS AGAINST MOSS

To Have Lively Fight for Mayor in Newport News, With Republicans In.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., May 2.—When the lists closed last night, Colonel Maryus Jones, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Allan A. Moss, former Mayor, were the only candidates for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. The primary will be held on May 16th. Fred Read, formerly postmaster, has been nominated by the Republicans to oppose Jones.

This city will have about 1,000 voters for the congressional and presidential elections. This was the last day for payment of poll taxes.

INSTRUCT FOR TAFT

Third District North Carolina Convention for Him.

NEWBURN, N. C., May 2.—The Republican convention of the Third Congressional District, which met here to-day, unanimously instructed its delegates to the national convention to vote for Taft first and last and all the time.

The convention voted for B. C. Duncan, of Beaufort as the North Carolina member of the national committee, and elected as delegates to the Chicago convention W. H. Sawyer, of Stone Mountain; H. F. Brown, of Tuckahoe; and Alternates, T. D. Hewitt, of Newport, and H. W. Buckmore, of Warsaw.

Much damage was inflicted in Manchester yesterday by the violent windstorm. Trees were blown down in several places. Sixty and Peculiar Streets, a large willow was scattered across the street, and another was laid low in front of the Marshall mill. Other trees were blown down, but all were soon removed by the police and street forces.

Serious trouble was averted on Friday night by the police at the Manchester Glass Works, where an Italian and a negro laborer became involved in an altercation that threatened to result in bloodshed. The two fought several rounds, and the negro got the best of the Italian. The Italian ran to his home, and returned with a revolver, declaring that he would kill the negro. In the meanwhile the police were warned of the impending trouble, and two of them arrived in time to prevent the threatened murder and sudden death. No arrests were made, the Italian departing peacefully for his home when he found that there was no negro to shoot.

Cows Arrested. Two cows were arrested last night by Sergeant Wright and some citizens on the charge of roaming at large and being disorderly on the street. It was with no little difficulty that the officers managed to get the cows, who seemed to believe that the city belonged to them by inherent right. They chased up one street and down the next, with the greatest of ease, and were pursued. At last he cornered them, and with the aid of a number of bystanders whom he summoned to his assistance, they were driven into closer quarters.

With the Churches. The Rev. Dr. R. J. Willingham, who recently returned after several months teaching in Japan, India and other Oriental countries, will preach to-night in Balbridge Street Baptist church and give an account of his trip. The pastor, the Rev. J. W. Durham, will conduct the morning services.

The Rev. J. K. Joffe, the pastor, will preach in Central Methodist Church both this morning and night. The subject of his morning sermon will be "The Sinner's Life," and "The Sinner's Life" will be his evening text.

The Rev. Gliby Campbell Kelly, D. D., pastor of Broad Street Methodist Church, will preach in Leader Hall at 8 o'clock this afternoon.

Services at the Church of the Holy Trinity will be held in West End Methodist Church to-night.

The services at Ashbury Methodist Church will be conducted both morning and night by the pastor, the Rev. W. G. Burch. His morning subject will be "The Second Coming of Christ." At night his subject will be "The Fate of the World."

To Celebrate Anniversary. The Rev. A. Binga, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church, colored, will celebrate the thirty-sixth anniversary of his pastorate to-day. Binga is a negro of exceptional intelligence, has the respect of both the white and the colored people, and has done much for the lifting of his race. There will be three sermons at his church—by the Revs. R. V. Peyton, W. T. Anthony and W. A. White.

Entertain Young Friends. Master Lee Roy Ally, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ally, of Ninth Street Road, entertained a number of his friends on Friday night at his home, who seemed to believe that the city belonged to them by inherent right. They chased up one street and down the next, with the greatest of ease, and were pursued. At last he cornered them, and with the aid of a number of bystanders whom he summoned to his assistance, they were driven into closer quarters.

A very enjoyable social was given on Friday night at the home of the Misses Yates.

Among those present were Misses Blanche Blunt, Lucy and Maggie Kirkham, Annie and Florence Vest, Jessie Farmer, Earl Hague, Florence Barksdale, Maggie and Mary Yates, Reid Lipscomb, Alex Blunt, Basil Slaughter, Charlie Laws, Leonard Blankenship, Howard Woolridge, Wister Hines, specimen of the premises by Chief Shaw, who will open a picture show at 221 East Broad Street, Hartung's old store.

B'NAI B'RITH MEETING

Prominent Speakers at Beth Abahab Temple To-night.

Rimmon Lodge, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, will hold an interesting public meeting at the Temple of Beth Abahab congregation this evening at 8:15 o'clock. The meeting will be presided over by Mr. H. T. Ezekiel, and the speakers of the evening will be introduced by Dr. E. N. Calista, Mr. Jacob Fuchs, St. Louis, one of the highest officers of the order; the Rev. M. Feuerlicht, of Indianapolis, one of the most prominent of the young rabbis of the country; and Mr. Henry S. Hutler, of Richmond, recently elected president of the Grand Lodge of District No. 5. The subject of the meeting is "The Jewish fraternal organization, not only of the United States, but of the world, having its lodges in almost every country."

Increased Cost of Paper 52 Cents, but Increased Price Is $12 a Ton.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—According to figures submitted to-day by John Norris, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, to the select committee of the House of Representatives regarding the increased cost of paper production, the increase amounted to but 52 cents a ton. In spite of statements of paper men to the contrary, he said his calculation was correct. He charged that the paper-makers had put on an increased price of $12 a ton, alleging that the increase was due to the higher cost of labor.

In the case of the Hudson River mill, Mr. Norris presented data showing that though the mill changed from a two to a three ton basis, the cost of production of paper actually had been reduced $1.15 per ton. It was his personal matter about which he had personal knowledge.

Mr. Norris continued for some time to discuss the change of basis from a two-ton or a two-shift basis to a three-ton or three-shift basis, claiming that the increase of cost was not sufficient to justify the advance in prices.

Low Wage Scale. Mr. Norris replying to questions by Mr. Mann, gave evidence showing that the average wage of paper workers in the State of New York for the third quarter of 1906 was 10.94 per week, which, he said, was very low. He would not enter into discussion with Mr. Mann as to whether it was about time for an increase.

In further refutation of the claim of the paper manufacturers regarding the cost of labor, Mr. Norris drew from reports of the United States Bureau of Labor, from which it appeared that there was a decrease in the pay of paper workers in 1906 as compared with 1905, and that paper working was the only industry that was down.

As showing the slight increase that had taken place in the wage scale, paper workers, Mr. Norris offered statistics for the year 1900, which fixed the paper production at 2,732,219 tons. Most average labor cost of the year was said to be 6.88 per worker in the United States received an average salary of $9.25 per week.

Further disputing the claims of the paper makers as to the wages paid, Mr. Norris, in evidence for the printing and binding group, which, he said, were receiving 78 per cent. more wages than were being paid to the paper workers. The committee adjourned until Monday.

MAKE FIGHT OVER DANIEL

Thomas and Others Expected to Try and Compromise His Defeat.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., May 2.—The Campbell County election met to-day at Rustburg and provided for the selection of delegates to the State convention, the selections to be made on May 16th. Each precinct will be given a delegate, and they will be elected by pre-voter mass-meetings, unless some other mass-meeting is held. In case of a primary, persons desiring to go to the convention will have to offer as candidate. The resolutions of the committee provide for the unit vote in the county.

There is no doubt but a primary will be held in Senator Daniel's precinct, and a struggle is to be made by former Senator Thomas to defeat him, should Major Daniel offer as a candidate as delegate from his precinct. A hard fight will be made against Major Daniel, and if he does not carry his precinct he will not be a member of the State convention.

Personal Mention. Miss Gladys Franklin Mayer is visiting her uncle, Mr. Frank Ruff, of Newport News, and is expected to go some time. Before returning she will visit Norfolk, Old Point and Williamsburg.

Mrs. C. is the guest of Mrs. J. Allison Hodges, No. 107 East Franklin Street.

Miss Ray Evans, of Petersburg, and Mrs. K. B. Savage, of Richmond, are the guests of Mrs. John Antrim at her home in Norfolk. Mrs. Antrim entertained at cards in honor of her guests on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. George R. Bowles is visiting relatives on Oakwood Avenue.

Miss Eleanor Clare Dinnien, one of the most popular of the young ladies of the city, is the guest of Miss Madeline Wallace Lorraine.

Secures Fire Permit. The Gaiety Theatre Company secured a fire permit yesterday after an inspection of the premises.

Expenses Account Filed. The last of the accounts in the recent municipal primary to file their expense accounts came in by their schedules yesterday, the following making report:

Edw. B. Barber, Jr., reported to Council in Madison Ward, $16.50.

Ruben Burton, reported to the Board of Aldermen in Ward 29, $20.

W. T. Atkinson, defeated for the Common Council in Jefferson Ward, $30.50.

The amount in Mr. Atkinson's case includes the $10 fee put up for a recount of the ballots, by which no change was made in the result.

Driven Out by Fire. Much merchandise was destroyed by fire in the grocery store of J. H. Sampson, at No. 210 Main Street, yesterday morning. Thompson was awakened by the smell of smoke and immediately got up. He found the fire had started in the back of the store, and he was driven out by the flames.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by Oakwood and Broad Street car No. 390, and Jones was hurled out. He was severely hurt. A bystander, who was in the car, was also hurt. Dr. Woodson, of the city ambulance corps, decided that he had better be sent to the hospital.

The car was driven by a man named Jones, who was a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Barkeepers, Driven Out by Law, Would Refuse License.

Judging from the rapidly with which the recently vacated bar rooms, forced out of business by the working of the Dabney law, are being taken up for use as other lines of business, real estate on business streets must be in great demand. A number of the old bar rooms will be turned into moving-picture exhibits, and others will be used for various purposes.

In the case of Giamotti, at Ninth and Broad Streets, a regular contention has arisen, and may lead to an unexpected court decision. The former saloonkeeper proposes to contest further payments on his unexpired lease on the ground that he rented the place for a bar room, as stated in the lease, that he has been thrown out of business through no cause of his own, and that through the processes of the Dabney law he is now unable to fulfill his part of the contract and continue to keep a bar room in the house. The case will be heard in the City Circuit Court next Tuesday, and the verdict will set a precedent for a number of other barkeepers who have unexpired leases on their hands.

Must Not Receive. Major R. W. Hunter, secretary of military records of the State, received another of his lost muster rolls yesterday. The roll, which was lost in the Cavalry, Third Virginia Regiment. The command was at various times attached to Fitz Lee's, Wickham's and Stuart's brigades. The roll was brought to the department by M. T. Alexander, a member of the company, who had preserved a copy since the war.

Car Strikes Countryman. While driving slowly out to their home in Hanover county last night, Addison R. Adams and Norman Jones were struck by